IMPORTANT BUSINESS TRANSACTED IN SPRING SESSION OF TRUSTEES

Committee on Grounds and Buildings Enlarged to Make Plans For Future—Plan to Raise
Salaries of Professors.

A meeting of the Board of Trustees of the College was held at Truax Hall Saturday. Those present were Hon. Elihu Root, Geo. E. Dunham, Hamilton B. Tompkins, Rev. M. W. Stryker, Alex. C. Soper, Charles B. Rogers, Benjamin W. Arnold, Samuel F. Engs, Hon. Abel E. Blackmar, Hon. Joseph I. France, Rev. Robert G. MacGregor, D.D., R. L. Maynard, Joseph Rudd, Henry M. Andrews, Rev. Arthur S. Hoyt, D.D., Thomas R. Proctor, President F. C. Ferry, Hon. Warren I. Lee, Calvin N. Kendall.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. Robert MacGregor, '97. The resignation of John N. Beach, '62, as trustee was received and regrettably accepted.

The report of President Ferry showed the largest number of students in attendance at any time during the history of the College. He made several recommendations, which were approved and adopted.

The plan of the Physical Education Department was first discussed and was approved under its present form. Funds were also appropriated to provide for an assistant to Mr. Prettyman through the next year, thus continuing the policy started this past spring. Plans for a new Hamilton College publication were debated upon and approved. This publication is to be known as "Hamilton College Studies and Publications," and its first issue is to be the publication of "The Rudens," the Latin play by Plautus which is to be given by the Latin Club at the coming Commencement under the direction of Professor Chase.

Fellowship Appointments

The two men recommended for the appointments for the class of 1919 to the two fellowships were approved. The Root Fellowship appointee is Roswell Roy Perkins of Ogdensburg, New York, and the Locke Fellowship goes to Oliver Wesley Hutchinson of Lowell, Mass.

A few matters of interest concerning the faculty were topics for consideration. Professor Rudd will continue as Associate Professor of English Literature next year. It was duly authorized to obtain a new Professor in Romance Languages and also an Associate Professor in Biology. The arrival of Mr. M. G. Ziel of Mebane, N. C., as an assistant to Coach Prettyman was noted with interest.

The rule of the Trustees which forbids the holding of any athletic events on any other grounds except those of rival colleges or those on the Hill was made a trifle less stringent. The Trustees gave authority for the holding of relay races or track meets on grounds other than those strictly belonging to collegiate institutions. This was necessitated by the fact that often the most important relay races or track meets are held on Athletic Club grounds because of better accommodations and accessibility. The final approval in such cases is left in the hands of the faculty.

There was much discussion about the college grounds and plans for the future and the present committee on college grounds was increased and directed to devise a far reaching scheme which would take care of the future building activities of the college with regard to location of buildings. The committee as it now stands consists of Hon. Elihu Root, '64, Chairman, Ex-Pres. Melancthon Woolsey Stryker, '72, Charles B. Rogers, '87, Hon. Frederick W. Griffith, '86, Joseph Rudd, '90, Daniel Burke, '93, Hon. Warren I. Lee, '99, and President Ferry, Secretary.

Henry Murray Andrews, '99, and William M. Bristol, '82, were re-elected as Trustees for a term of seven years, to terminate in 1926.

It was determined to give the coming Commencement the character either of a Victory or a Peace Commencement, the selection of terms to be dependent upon whether or not the peace treaty is signed, sealed and delivered at that time. It is proposed that on Sunday afternoon there shall be a special memorial service in honor of Hamilton men who lost their lives during the war. A part of the commencement exercises will be an address, presumably by some distinguished alumnus, with special reference to Hamilton College's contribution to the war, and the men who represented it in the service.

The Trustees at a meeting held two or three years since put into the records the expression of their desire and determination to increase the salaries of the professors at the very earliest moment when available funds would permit. It was announced Saturday that that time seems to be in sight and reasonably close at hand. The liability is that the College will realize within less than a year $700,000 or more from the bequest of the late Mrs. Russell Sage. So much of this as is necessary to put the pay of Hamilton's instructors up where it ought to be will be promptly devoted to that purpose. The exact date when this can be done can not now be given, but it will certainly be within a year, and probably sooner. The trustees were unanimous in their opinion that so much of the fund as is necessary should be at once devoted to this purpose.

JUNIOR CLASS HAS ANNUAL DINNER AT HOTEL UTICA

on Variety of Subjects.

'BART' GORMAN TOASTMASTER

The Class of 1920 held its annual banquet on Thursday evening, April 24th, in the Italian Room of the Hotel Utica, where so many famous Hamilton Class banquets have been held. This one was no exception to the rule so far as famousness goes and it may be said that it was an exception only in so far as it excelled most other class affairs.

The class gathered in the hotel at 6.15 and immediately filed into the room where the symposium was to be held. A delicious menu was served consisting of the following delicacies:

Little Neck Clams
Green Turtle Thick en Tasse
Celery Olives
Medallions of Sole Marguery
Breast of Capon Virginie
Grilled Sweet Potatoes
New Cauliflower Saute
Waldorf Salad with Pimentos
Vanilla Ice Cream, Chocolate Sauce
Petit Fours
Cafe Noir

"Bart" Gorman, Class President, was Master of Ceremonies, and the order of oratory was as follows:

Me and Reba, "Jack" Johnson
Out of the Mouths of Babes and Sucklings, "Dick" Ritterbush
The Order of the Brown Derby,
"Sky" Brandt
Vive La Vingt, "Harm" Morton
Arbor Memories, "Heimy" Kneeland
Saxophone Sobs, "Otto" Schwarz
Sweet Patootie, "Franny" Clark
Flying Egg Nogs, "Stew" Wheeler
The Theory of Promiscuous Osculation,
"Fritz" Neff
Dulce et Decorum est Prohibition,
"Chet" McLean
Horses, "Leatherneck" Nino
Shades of '18, "Tomper" Thompson
Shades of '19, "Brad" Ogden

Following the speeches, some of which were omitted by unanimous consent, the banquetters turned themselves into theater-goers and proceeded to take in the Colonial, Avon, and Lumberg varieties of histrionic ability.

The committee in charge of the banquet, to whom due credit must be given, consisted of "Dick" Kaiser and "Bob" Elliott.

SENIORS PLAN DANCE

Commencement Week this June will be the same as in past years except that in addition to the usual Baccalaureate Sermon there will be a Memorial Service in honor of the Hamilton men who have given their lives for their country. Also the graduating class is planning to add a dance to the regular program in order to give the younger alumni a still better time.

The plans for Class Day are still very much up in the air, as no committees have been appointed as yet. But it is certain that 1919 will end their college course by having one of the best programs that has ever been held on the Hill.

It has not been definitely decided what plays the Charlatans will put on this year. But in all probability there will be four one-act plays, one of which will be "A Night in an Inn" by Lord Dunsany.

The program of the week follows:

Thursday, June 12

4 p. m. McKinney Prize Declamation Contest, in the Chapel.

Friday, June 13

GEOLOGY CLASS HAS SUCCESSFUL TRIP

Visit Helderberg Mountains in Eastern New York—Region Especially Rich in Fossils.

WILLIAMS REPRESENTED

What may well be called the most successful trip ever staged by the Hamilton Geology Department was carried out last Tuesday. Nineteen students from here and eleven from Williams College went on the trip, besides Professors Dale and Clelland, the latter the head of the Department of Geology at Williams, and a State Geologist well acquainted with the region to be travelled. The party assembled at the New York Central station in Albany at 7:15 a. m. on Tuesday, where they took the fast Binghamton Express for Voorheesville.

From this town, the travellers took a three-mile hike to the little village of New Salem. After a few minutes' walk they came in sight of the mountain which was to furnish plenty of exercise and interest during the rest of the day. The first lap of the hill was a hard 500-foot climb along a steep cliff, explanations of various formations along the way being given by Professor Clelland. At the top of this hill is a stone wall along which the geologists stretched out and pounded stones to the best of their ability, the scene presented resembling that seen any day at a state prison. In this strata, known to the initiated as Tentaculite Limestone, many fossils were found, chiefly Brachiopods.

About 200 feet higher up the geologists came to a layer of Oriskany Sandstone which was studied minutely and many fossils also seen. This rock is to be found in abundance in the vicinity of Clinton and forms a large part of the rocks with which the Chemical Laboratory is built.

The next strata reached was the Esopus Grit, characterized by the so-called Caudi Galli impressions, which means Roosters' Tails, because of their peculiar shape. Next the men took a climb up a steep hill, distance 250 feet. This was the highest point reached in the journey, an altitude of 1232 feet above sea level. Here they found deposits of Onondaga Limestone.

A descent was now made back to the region of the "Rooster's Tail" impressions. Lunch made its appearance here and was gratefully received. The lunch had been purchased in bulk and brought out by two teams which were from now on used by the party. After their hunger had been satisfied, the travelers set out for Hales Cave. There were various stops made to explain sink holes and natural bridges seen along the route. The cave was finally reached and was found to be a large natural excavation in the side of the same escarpment which had been climbed early in the morning. The cave has been caused by weather action on soft rock and by an underground stream. The cave has been traced back for a distance of two miles, but as it is only about three feet high and there is only a narrow path, on the bank of the stream which runs along the bottom, along which to crawl, no one entered.

After spending some time studying this natural phenomenon, all set out for the famous Indian Ladder. The journey to this place was very thrilling. First a descent was made from the top of the cliff half way down by means of a rustic ladder and then a crawl on a two-foot-wide ledge along the edge of the cliff for a distance of 200 yards or so. Upon reaching the foot of the ladder about a dozen of the party turned and crawled in the wrong direction and as a result lost the way and did not rejoin the rest until their return to the station at a place called Meadowdale. Those who turned the right way found an opening in the cliff similar to the one found at Hales Cave except that here a large fall of water came over the top of the opening instead of out of the bottom as in the former case. At the foot of the waterfall the snow had hardened into a bridge and this the fellows chopped down and sent the ice and snow crashing into the valley below.

Leaving here, the explorers continued their perilous journey along the cliff to the road where the wagons awaited them. Upon arrival at the Albany station yells were exchanged between the members of the party from the different colleges and the two divisions separated.

The men from here who took the trip are: Bratton, Coleridge, Hutchinson, Miller, '19; Barnett, Cairns, Cobb, Couper, D'Amico, Doyle, Kaiser, Kneeland, Ritterbush, Salbitano, and Schwarz, '20; Holler, Seaver, and Weller, '21.

—James L. England, '80, has recently moved from Wanamaker to Wanble, South Dakota.

—Harry C. Allen, M. D., '93, has accepted a position in the medical department of the Endicott-Johnson Shoe Company at Endicott, N. Y. Dr. Allen formerly practiced at Oxford, N. Y.

W. Curtis Knox, '12, With Army of Occupation

Meets Aldrich, '16, in Coblenz and Visits Fortress at Ehrenbreitstein.

ENJOYS LIFE

W. Curtis Knox, '12, is a member of the American Army of Occupation in Germany. In a letter recently received from him and dated March 29, part of which was printed in the Utica Daily Press of April 23rd, he says in part:

"The finishing of this letter was delayed due to the fact that suddenly I succeeded in getting a pass to the city of Coblenz over Sunday. I was particularly anxious to get there because I expected to meet Dave Aldrich, '16, who, as you know, is a lieutenant in the artillery of the Second Division. At present he is teaching school in the city a couple of hours a day and taking life rather easy as the army goes. I met him on the street about five o'clock Saturday evening and except for the leather boots with spurs, the Sam Browne belt and a good looking mustache which, he says, he has had a year, he looks much the same as when I saw him last about a year after his graduation at college. We had a great visit and after staying with him over night, he took me across the Rhine to his regiment which is stationed in the fort at Ehrenbreitstein. At least, it was an unusual experience for a private to sit down and eat at the table with officers; very unmilitary, I'm sure. We had quite a snowstorm during the afternoon, but when it cleared we were able to look out of the window and see the airplanes circling below us over the Rhine and the Moselle. This must have been quite a fortress in its day, commanding as it does both rivers right at the point where the Moselle becomes a part of the larger stream, but Dave assured me that their battery of 88s could put the place out of commission in about an hour and a half of modern warfare. The climb to the top was a wind-getter and put me in mind of the fall days on College Hill when I used to have 'shin fever'. This winding road, however, had the old Hill beat for length and steepness; other exercise would not be necessary if a fellow climbed it a couple of times a day. Altogether the experience was very enjoyable and I guess I can stand it to stay here a month or so longer if I have to.

"For some time our wireless station, operated by signal corps of our regiment, has been catching messages from France and Germany, and yesterday they stretched a wire from the hilltop across the river to the top of the hill back of the village, by means of which they expect to be able to catch with their instruments any messages in Europe and, later, messages from the States. In this way we are not so far removed from the rest of the world."

—Cedric S. Adams, '12, who was a lieutenant in the signal corps, has accepted the principalship of Leavenworth Institute and Wolcott High School at Wolcott, N. Y., for next year.

Everybody Out!

Baseball and Track open up the 1919 Spring Season this coming week end against Rochester and Hobart respectively. With the same reminding influence the college body is urged to support these first two events on our spring program with the enthusiasm and vigor of Hamilton men. The captains of the two teams are willing to predict victories and although little is known of the early season form of Hobart or Rochester, the college body need do little more than place their confidence in our two varsity teams. Both are well balanced, well coached teams, working for victories with every ounce of pep, fight and stamina known to us as Hamilton spirit. There remains only our duty to the team, to add the necessary punch of our presence there when it just needs a little bit of encouragement to win victories. A good beginning is half the race. EVERYBODY OUT SATURDAY AND PEP IT UP!

Our Duty

Another trustees' meeting has come and gone, bringing many new changes in rules, college government and plans for the future. All the innovations were ones that solved problems and all should prove advantageous to the college and its life. But still that need which Life has been so insistent about remains unsatisfied. Either the Trustees failed to realize the importance of the matter or the matter failed to attract their attention. If the latter be true the blame rests upon the shoulders of the undergraduates. In either case something must be done.

Life does not believe in nagging. It doesn't pay in the end. But our Trustees have failed to realize what a need really presents itself. It now remains for the college body to prepare itself by petition or otherwise, so that another trustees' meeting will not pass without action for an infirmary on the Hill.

DEAN SAUNDERS AND THORP GIVE ORGAN-VIOLIN RECITAL

Audience Delighted With Well-balanced Program Given by College's Most Noted Musicians.

THORP'S WORK PRAISED

W. W. Thorp, '20, rendered the College a distinct service by the very beautiful Vesper recital he gave on Sunday, assisted by Dean Saunders. Mr. Thorp's mastery of the organ has increased steadily since he has been the official College Organist, a mastery well shown by his handling of the attractive program of Sunday, as well as by many of his weekly offerings.

The program was well balanced. Avoiding the temptation to attract by what is merely showy and imposing, he handled very sympathetically such a number as the Cantabile from Widor's Sixth Symphony, one of the best of his offerings. And by his rendering of the Schumann Sketch and the attractive group of three American numbers he thoroughly delighted his audience. Incidentally the excellence of Mr. Thorp's accompaniments was noticeable; and this in itself is no slight achievement.

Dr. Saunders' three numbers, the beautiful Gluck and Handel pieces in particular, contributed very largely to the enjoyableness of the recital. They were played with the delicacy and finish which we have come to expect in Dean Saunders' public performances.

The program follows:

Adagio in F,	Handel
Dr. Saunders.
Cantabile from the Sixth Symphony,	Widor
Mr. Thorp.
Scene in the Elysian Fields,	Gluck

SENIOR CLASS MEMBERS PLAN VARIED CAREERS

Hamlin to Go to Far East, Others Are Scattered in the Educational, Business and Religious World.

SEVEN IN BUSINESS

Now that the course is drawing to a close, the Seniors are considering what they will do next year and many have already made final decisions. As heretofore, the Seniors will represent Hamilton in many different departments of the world's work.

Six members of the class of '19 will continue their study during the coming year, three in law school. Bratton, Ferguson, and Miller expect to attend the Columbia Law School, New York City, if they are not lured into the business world before next fall. Pierce will study architecture in some school, he has not decided which yet, while Valentine will attend N. Y. U., where he will take graduate work. Giddings contemplates some graduate work, but has not yet picked the school or the branch of study.

Hutchinson and Perkins have decided to study for the ministry after leaving the Hill. The former will prepare in the Theological Seminary of Boston University, perhaps not next year, but eventually, and Perkins will enter the Auburn Theological Seminary in the fall.

The work of Paul Hamlin during the next few years is perhaps of more interest to the whole college than that of any other man graduating this June. Paul is the man who has volunteered his services as the Hamilton College representative in the "Yale-in-China" college at Changsha, China. The Y. M. C. A. Cabinet felt when they selected Paul to be the representative of the college in this great work that he was the best fitted for the position and we may all be glad that he has agreed to undertake this work. We are sure he will make a success of it and bring further honor to the name of Hamilton. He will teach some course in the college run by Yale there and it will be understood that he is the Hamilton representative in that college.

Of the twenty-five men who leave the Hill with the class of 1919, three will undertake educational work. Harbordt expects to secure a position as principal of some school in this part of the state though he has as yet made no definite engagement. Stratton also will be a principal, located in the high school at Madison, N. Y. "Bugs" would not disclose if he had already closed the deal in this matter, but from the confident way in which he spoke we suspect he has. "Bill" Briggs is rather undecided at present, but is seriously considering the acceptance of a position as Professor of Spanish at Northwestern University.

Spinning to Invent

Strange as it may seem, we are to have a second Thomas Edison among our young alumni in the person of Spinning. Unfortunately this embryo inventor prefers to shroud himself in mystery and will not disclose any of his secrets. We think that his artistic temperament is the cause of this bashfulness. However, Ralph says that he hopes to startle the world with

Spice o' Life

Weakly Pome

We hear the mystery and ghost
Discussed in every land,
And what we want to know the most,
We never understand.
Great things of life are buried deep,
Too deep for common knowledge;
And into them we only peep,
Despite four years at college.
The greatest wonders of the earth,
The things that hold our thought;
Cannot be studied for their worth,
For these things are not taught.
We wonder at the star-lit sky,
We marvel at the sea,
And then we say, "I wonder why?
How came these things to be?"
In chemistry we sit and hear
The wisdom-words of "Stink,"
We try to get their meaning clear,
But do we—I don't think.
So in this thought let's drink a toast,
And firmly take our stand—
"The things we want to know the most,
We cannot understand."

Famous Sayings

Stink: Now, gentlemen, this reaction proves the formula, only unfortunately it doesn't.

Supe: Has any one of this brilliant class condescended to prepare this lesson?

Fancher: Mr. — says —.

Prex: I have statistics to prove that —.

"Sag" Carmer: That was rotten.

"Smiling Sam" Cairns: A bird in the hand catches no moss, but a rolling stone is worth two in the bush.

Keehn: All kidding aside, fellows.

Schnitz: "Come, come, Mr. Kelly, you know what 'ich weiss nicht' means."

Kelly, after a wild night in Utica: "It was night."

Paton: "She kissed him on the spur of the moment."

Whitbeck: "Another example of the sharp pangs of love."

Ogden (with a headache): "Gosh; it hurts me even to think!"

Jessup: "Guess you aren't in much pain."

When a certain sub-freshman recently visited the Hill, he thought that the college employed a detective, when he saw Sid Rosenthal sleuthing it across the campus.

Baldy: "Higbee, what county officers are elected by the people?"

Higbee: "Sheriff, district attorney, undertaker, —."

Baldy: "According to that, we'll soon be electing white-wings,"

Cairns: "Come on out and have a soda with me."

Sky: "Why a soda?"

Bud: "Oh, because it's so delicious" (soda licious).

Meritt: "Going to town tonight, Brad?"

Ogden: "No."

Meritt: "What's the matter; sick?"

a great invention soon after his Commencement.

The following seven men will enter various lines of business: Coleridge, Huntsman, Jessup, McLean, Parks, Stone, and White. Coleridge may accept a position with the Western Cartridge Co., of Alton, Ill. Huntsman is debating between two lines of work, scenery designer of one of the foremost movie concerns in New York City (a position which has been offered to him already), and the place of instructor of manual training or that of football coach in Erasmus High School, Brooklyn. Jessup has decided to work in Utica for a year in order to get some business experience before beginning the study of law. He has already secured a job but does not wish to make it known. We found only one man in the class who is going in his father's business and that man is McLean, who will enlist in the ranks of the firm of Hills, McLean, and Haskins of Binghamton. Parks has secured a place with the Standard Oil Company of New York and will be located either at Albany or some place in the Far East. He may decide, however, to reject this offer and then he would work for the New York Telephone Co. Stone has two bids to work for the government, one with the U. S. Ship Building Administration at Camden, N. J., the other with the U. S. Food Administration at Washington, D. C. He has not settled the question as to which one to accept. Either a banker, an employe of the New York Telephone Co., or of an aluminum company is the option presented to White. His strongest leanings are to the first and he will no doubt become one of the big financial men of the country. We are told "Jim" always did like money.

There are five men in the departing class that have not up to the present selected a definite line of work, though they all expect to enter the business world without further preparation. These men are: Ackler, Fursman, Reed, Shirlew, and Skinner.

—At a meeting of the Honor Court recently, a rough draft of an amendment to the constitution of the Honor Court was drawn up. This amendment would extend the jurisdiction of the Honor Court to cover the courses in Writing English. This proposal was submitted at a meeting of the upperclassmen, and they went on record as favoring such an amendment. Details of the application of this proposed amendment are not yet worked out.

"FLYING FOR ALLENBY IN PALESTINE" SUBJECT OF FAMOUS ENGLISH LECTURER

Story of Thrilling Personal Adventures and Escape
From Turks Holds Audience Spellbound in Last Meyers Lecture of Year.

"Flying for Allenby in Palestine" and personal adventures were pictured by Captain Alan Bott, M. C., R. A. F., in the fourth and last Myers lecture delivered in the Chapel last evening. After the introduction, the speaker began his story of modern exploits in the land of a thousand wonders and held the audience from the start to the end.

Young in appearance but old in experience, Captain Bott was well fitted for the usually strenuous task of addressing a body of American college students. His preparation as a public speaker was received in his native land, England, and his career as a writer as well as an aviator gave him the lofty viewpoint. In other words, he was quite able to look at his audience from a platform.

Captain Bott went to Palestine early in 1918 and joined the flying section of General Allenby's British Army which had pushed back the Turks under the command of the German General Liman von Sanders beyond Jerusalem. After a series of brilliant flights in the air, the Captain was finally shot down in flames near Nazareth. He was wounded at the time and captured by the Turks, in whose hands he remained a prisoner for four months. During this period of confinement Captain Bott tried several times to escape. While in the hands of the Turks he learned a good deal of the hardships and miseries his British compatriots of General Townsend's ill-fated expedition to Kut-el-Almara in Mesopotamia had undergone. Sixty-five per cent of the British prisoners in Turkey had died; the condition of the rest was appalling.

Escapes from Turks

Many experiences while attempting to get away from his enemies were related in a fascinating manner. Captain Bott's adventures in Damascus, in Asia Minor, and in Constantinople were both exciting and amusing. When he actually did succeed in escaping, he set sail for Odessa, Russia. But his nerve and imagination were rewarded only after a long and steady apprenticeship.

Having eluded the Turkish authorities and reached Russia, Captain Bott had to make preparations for his next move, because Odessa lay in dangerous territory. Germans and Austrians were in force in the Ukraine and the Bolsheviks and Cossacks were fighting for the possession of the land. The Captain was in the dark as to the extraordinary events which were taking place at the time in France, the Balkans, and in Palestine, where Allenby and his Arab allies were driving on to Damascus and Aleppo. The news of the surrender of Bulgaria was received in time to let him change his plan. He was ready to work his way back to Allenby's army in Syria. The return trip lay across the Black Sea from Odessa to Varna, a Bulgarian port, and, after a short stay with the Army of Occupation, through Bulgaria to Greece and the Aegean Sea.

Captain Bott took ship to Egypt and from there he travelled by rail to Palestine. The remainder of the trip he covered by aeroplane, flying to Damascus, which had already been captured.

The Future of Turkey

Captain Bott, in bringing his address to a conclusion, said he wished to predict the probable future of Arabia, Syria, Palestine, Mesopotamia, and the rest of Turkey. All of these territories would naturally be affected by the Peace Conference which should make the treaty of peace. Palestine, Mesopotamia, and Arabia would probably come under British protection. Eventually these lands would become self-governing states. Syria would probably have France as a mandatory. Constantinople and the Dardanelles and the adjacent territory would be internationalized and Armenia might have America as a mandatory. The Greeks would probably receive Smyrna and other coastal regions of Asia Minor inhabited by Greeks. Anatolia, the heart of Asia Minor, would remain Turkish. Some such arrangement would no doubt be satisfactory to the various nations represented at Paris and to the populations released from the Turkish yoke.

The lecture was well attended by members of the faculty and their families, by the student body, and visitors from the neighborhood. The usual reception was held at Commons Hall, where Captain Bott met interested listeners and answered questions.

Captain Bott covered the following points in his lecture:

The Palestine Campaign, especially General Allenby's magnificent last victory; the Arab dash across the desert to cut the Turkish lines at the terminus of the Hedja Railway; the complete destruction of the Turkish armies in Palestine and Syria; the magnificent air exploits during the advance; captured at Nazareth; the Turkish massacre and ill treatment of prisoners; four attempts to escape; adventures as an escaped prisoner in Damascus, Asia Minor, and Constantinople; posing as a German officer and interesting experiences undergone; the romantic story of an Oxford professor who led the Arabs, dressed as one of them; stowaways on a tramp bound for Odessa; false passports; in Odessa living with the Bolsheviks; the Bolshevik excesses and massacres and the state of utter chaos in Russia; news of the fall of Bulgaria; on the ship bound for Varna; strange companions, a Russian General and a British spy; in Bulgaria; rejoining the British forces; back to Egypt and up to the Palestine front by train; flight to Damascus; the complete conquest of the Turk and the restoration of the Holy Land; a Crusader of the Air; the probable future of Arabia, Syria, Mesopotamia, and Turkey.

JOHNSON, '15, WITH RELIEF IN POLAND

Condition of People Very Poor, Prices High and Signs of Poverty Appear Everywhere.

ATTENDS PREMIER'S DINNER

Wallace B. Johnson, '15, is an ensign with the American Relief Administration Mission for Poland and is stationed at Warsaw. He says that thanks to Mr. Hoover's relief administration to which he belongs, the poor are being provided for as well and as fast as limited transportation facilities allow.

He says that "seeing us, visible signs that America is helping, is a great comfort to the Poles. Prices are unbelievably high. What looks like a ten-cent cake of soap can be had for twenty marks. A suit is said to cost 1,500 marks. A supper after the theatre, and this is the first time in three years that I have run into the possibility, may be had for two people for 150 marks if it does not include champagne. I tried yesterday to get some cheesecloth to mount a map on, and had I found it, it would have cost 200 marks. As the majority of Poles do not spend 1,500 marks for clothes and a correspondingly high price for shoes, there is seen the most spectacular and pitiful poverty that I ever hope to see. Amid snow storms and in bitter cold weather, I have seen children and women in their bare feet, huddled against a building. Beggars are everywhere and it is hard to pass without giving them something, for they are indeed poor. Fortunately there is not much display of luxury contrasted with this. There are no automobiles except those for military purposes. We have three cars but only because we would be unable to get around the country without them, as the trains are rare, and on many lines do not run at all. The Red Cross, entirely separate from our mission, is also here and around Poland.

"We are a part of the Hoover mission. All members here are army officers, except myself—and being in naval uniform I baffle the populace completely as to what I am. All the men here are young men, some of whom were with Mr. Hoover in Belgium and are very much 'on to their job'. I think we do a very creditable line of business and we are certainly receiving the gratitude and friendship of the Poles. Everyone is very cordial to us, and we have many opportunities to meet the important people here.

"A few days ago I went to a dinner given by the prime minister, who is none other than Paderewski. It was the most interesting affair of its kind I have ever attended. There were Americans, French, British, and Italians as guests of honor. All the Polish cabinet was present, the chief of state, high church dignitaries in scarlet robes, rabbis, etc. It was difficult to follow the after-dinner speeches, as they jumped in quick succession from Polish to French, Italian, English, or all four. Paderewski is remarkably eloquent in them all. He made a speech in Polish and French. Later, after the American general had spoken, Paderewski made a most eloquent speech in English, ending in Polish, that brought the whole assembly to their feet and kept them cheering many minutes.

"I am pretty busy, as are we all, but we do find time to get out to parties and the theatre sometimes. There is one theatre here where you are apt to run into any old friend of a musical comedy. * * * There is also a national opera where we have seen some Russian ballet and heard some Polish operas as well. I have as yet to discover a second Sembrich among the artists or a second Modjeska at the theatre, although this is the home of those two artists. Kubelick finds violin more profitable in America, and they say Paderewski has not touched a piano in 20 months. He still has long hair, so I suppose he can get back to form at short notice. Just now he is kept quite busy being prime minister for a country that is at war on three fronts, and starving people on all sides. I should think it would give a man of an artistic, nervous temperament many sleepless nights."

BIG ENTERTAINMENT FOR SUB-FRESHMEN

Y. M. C. A. Plans Vaudeville Show and Movies—Baseball Game and Track Meet Scheduled.

CHARLATANS TO PERFORM

Several new features have been introduced for the entertainment of the Sub-Freshman on Sub-Freshman Day. The Y. M. C. A. has come to the fore with plans for a vaudeville show on Saturday night and movies on Friday, and Secretary Mattoon has arranged an additional baseball game.

On Saturday morning at nine o'clock Utica Free Academy will play some other visiting team on the college field. The faculty has passed the necessary rules allowing the game to be played during the hours for classes. Secretary Mattoon desired to have the Hamilton Freshmen play the U. F. A. but Coach Prettyman would not allow this as several of the men would participate either in the College baseball game with C. C. N. Y. in the afternoon or in the track meet with Union.

The Y. M. C. A. vaudeville exhibition promises to be the best show of its kind that has ever been given here at Hamilton. The combination of local talent that has been secured warrants that assertion. Funny songs, dancing girls, jazzy music, dialogues, an exhibition of histrionic ability, and the queer antics of D. T. neophytes, will go together to form a show that will far surpass all other similar efforts.

College Quartet to Sing

The College Quartet will be present with a complete repertoire of songs. All those who have heard this organization this year are firm in their conviction that it is the best quartet that the College has ever turned out. They will sing some of their features for this performance. "Billy" Pritchett's Light Artillery will compound the jazziest conglomeration of Sympathetic Symphony and Dancing Blues that has ever affected the feet of Hamilton men. Rumor says that the management is to furnish straps to keep the audience in their seats when once that jazzbo harmony is started. Pritchett is also working up several new solo acts.

Moore and Barry, the versatile comedians and dialogue artists, will render their usual line of jokes, comments, and declamations. Moore has a trick that is guaranteed to baffle all who behold. Barry reads "The Shoot of Dan McGrew" with deep feeling and gives it an artistic treatment. Ted Paton has promised a cartooning act that will as usual be good from start to finish. The D. T. Neophytes will stage some crazy kapers and feature in a little of the higher slapstick comedy. Thorp has been gathering a talented chorus from the best material in the U. S. and promises a show far better than any that has been seen on the stage of the Lumberg. A good share of the chorus has already been obtained, but if you think that you are particularly

THIRTY-FIVE SCHOOLS REPRESENTED IN FIVE PRELIMINARY CONTESTS HELD FRIDAY NIGHT

Preliminary speaking contests were held last Friday night in five cities and towns in which some thirty-five high schools and academies participated.

The schools of the western part of the state were included in the contests at Albion and at Tonawanda; the Hudson Valley contestants spoke at Kingston or at Mt. Vernon, and Utica was the center for the speakers of this section of the state.

Donald MacKinnon of the Utica Free Academy was the choice of the judges in the last named contest, while Achilles Catsonis of Cazenovia Seminary received second prize. Mr. MacKinnon was also the winner of the Yale Speaking Contest held in Utica some time last month. He had for his declamation, "The Soldier of 1914." The selection that won second prize was "The Poison Growth of Prussianism." Hon. Frederick M. Calder, '82, president of the Hamilton College Alumni Association of Utica, presided. The schools represented in this contest were: Utica Free Academy, Cazenovia Seminary, Frankfort High School, Oriskany Falls High School, Hamilton High School, Ogdensburg Free Academy, Little Falls High School, Clinton High School, Mohawk High School, and Gouverneur High School.

At Mount Vernon the following schools were represented: Mount Vernon High School, Blair Academy, Holyoke High School, Irvington High School, and New Rochelle High School. At Albion: Albion High School, Batavia High School, Churchville High School, Fairport High School, West High School of Rochester, and Webster High School. At Kingston: Kingston High School, Albany High School, Catskill High School, Ellenville High School, and Hudson High School. At Tonawanda: Tonawanda High School, North Tonawanda High School, Gowanda High School, Orchard Park High School, and the following Buffalo schools: Hutchinson Central, Lafayette, Masten Park and Nichols Schools.

Those in charge of the contests were: John H. Patton, '15, at Tonawanda; Supt. Willis G. Carmer, '85, at Albion; Leo O. Coupe, '10, at Utica; Charles W. Lewis, '02, at Kingston; Prin. A. B. Davis, '78, at Mount Vernon.

the Western World. A member of the Class of 1919 was requested to go to Yali to act as the Hamilton Associate Professor on the faculty of that institution.

Yali, a large Christian school, college and hospital, was founded by Yale University, which has assumed the responsibility of maintaining it as far as it lies within her power. The institution, located at Changsha, China, has grown to such an extent that Yale has determined to ask a few colleges of known scholastic reputation to send every other year a man from the graduating class who would be an instructor in Yali. It was a big expense and the man would be practically giving his services, yet the need was such that it seemed some one would be willing. The class of 1919 was consulted and Paul Mahlon Hamlin of Pittston, Pennsylvania, volunteered to go. Then it was that the college was asked to pledge the money for the enterprise, and responded. A very large sum, considering the size of the college was pledged and more is expected to be sent in. Our alumni are expected to see the true values of such a plan, which does not lead to selfishness but to service, and will doubtless contribute more than enough to make up the necessary $1100 and give us a surplus, as this amount is recognized to be a minimum. Hamilton spirit has won many games and now we are going to send it to the Chinese that they too may know what it is and what it means.

—President Ferry spoke Wednesday night at a banquet of the Sons of St. George at the Hotel Martin in Utica, on the subject, "Education's Part in the War."

The postponed meeting of the Jabberwocks will be held Wednesday night at 7:30, at 18 Carnegie.

MEET WITH HOBART OPENS SEASON

Little is Known of Early Season Form of Hobart Team—Varsity Puts Faith in Balanced Team.

DWYER, HOBART STAR

Hamilton's track season gets off at the start, Saturday, May 3rd, when Hobart's track representatives invade the Hill. As neither of the teams have had a chance to try their mettle little can be prophesied about the outcome. The snow storm of last Thursday and Friday has retarded our development here on the Hill, but it is very probable that it also reached Geneva and affected Hobart much the same. It is extremely doubtful whether the snow will continue on the ground long enough to necessitate cancelling the meet.

From the little advance information which is on hand it is believed that the strongest men of both teams are runners. The field events seem to have attracted little notice and are consequently filled with weak entries. Dwyer, the captain of Hobart, is a sprinter of unusual ability and is credited with very fast time in both the hundred yard and the two hundred and twenty yard dashes. Just how good his condition is so early in the season is a matter of conjecture, but if all things are favorable a record may be established for our new track, in the dashes, which will stand for some time.

Hamilton is placing her faith, not in any individual stars but in a well balanced entry in every event. If she wins, it will not be a spectacular victory but one in which every point and place is well contested. The Hobart meet will be an index to what can be expected from the team when it encounters Union and Rochester.

BINGHAMTON TRIP CANCELLED

Manager Kaiser at Work on the Charlatan Trips.

The schedule of Charlatan trips is at present uncertain on account of the calling off of the performances in Oneonta and Binghamton by the respective schools. The reason advanced for this change is that the season is already so late, and so many other activities interfere with the dates, May 2 and 3, that it would be impracticable to stage the four one-act plays now.

However, Manager Kaiser is in connection with Rome, Albion, and Buffalo. Charlatans will present "The Ghost of Jerry Bundler," "Night," "Two Crooks," and "Between the Soup and the Savory" in Rome and Clinton during May. Trips to Albion and Buffalo may be arranged.

Preparations for the Commencement entertainment to be given by Charlatans will soon be under way, and a treat is expected.

—John A. Jones, '17, who is overseas with the First Pioneer Regiment, has just been released from the hospital at Coblenz where he has been ill with pneumonia.

HAMLIN TO REPRESENT HAMILTON IN FAR EAST

Y. M. C. A. Campaign for a Representative in China Big Success.

COLLEGE PLEDGES AID

Hamilton's Educational Enterprise in China is going to be a success. That was definitely decided Wednesday morning after chapel when the student body and faculty expressed their ideas on the subject in a most substantial way. After President Ferry had spoken to the assembled students on the absolute necessity of establishing relations with the Eastern Empires, Dr. Wood explained the plan under which Hamilton is to do her best to bring the East into close touch with gifted in that line and that you would do justice to the front row of Thorp's Eight O'clock Revue, speak to the manager at once. Zip Griffith, the most famous comedian Hamilton has ever known, is working up a brand new act special for this performance and will give the Sub-Freshmen the treat of their lives.

It is the intention of the committee from the Y. M. C. A. to have the program include not only the vaudeville material of the college, but to include an exhibition of the real work that the undergraduates are capable of doing in the dramatic line. For this purpose the committee, consisting of Kaiser and Moffat of the class of '21, has secured the assistance of Prof. Fancher and the Charlatans. It is very likely that "The Ghost of Jerry Bundler" will be the choice of one-act play to be given. In any event and whatever it is, it is sure to be good and a credit to the dramatics of Hamilton College.
